MEAT RATION AHEAD FOR U. S.

Limit on Consumption Forecast To Come in About Four Months.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Sept. 1 — Americans will be asked by the government soon to forego the extra steaks and chops they are able to buy with their record-breaking pay envelopes, and in about four months all meat will be rationed.

Secretary of Agriculture Wickard announced last night the food requirement committee had decided on rationing as the best method of assuring an equitable distribution of meat.

Meanwhile, a conservation campaign, possibly including "meatless days," will be instituted to limit civilian consumption of red meats to about the same average amount as has been eaten per capita during the last ten years.

"It will give our civilians approximately 2½ pounds of meat per person per week," Wickard said It is an adequate meat supply When you add in the increased supply of poultry, and cheese, and dry beans we have, it provides a top-notch protein diet for us"

In discussing the rationing decision, he said,

"We ought to manage the supply so that the housewife who can't get to the store until afternoon won't be forced to do without; so that everyone has a chance to buy his fair share of the total."

Minimum requirements of the fighting forces and their allies for the present marketing year will be 6,000,000,000 pounds, Wickard said.

"On top of that, our civilian population, with the highest incomes on record, working harder than ever before, want more meat than ever before," he added "They would take about 21 billion pounds this year

"The total demand adds up to more than the total supply 27 billion pounds of demand, 24 billion pounds of supply"

The order, expected in about two weeks, will apply to beef, veal, pork, lamb, mutton and sausage.

ADMINISTRATION OF RENT RULE DELAYED

Actual Official Enforcement Is Held Off for Week.

Actual administration of OPA rent control in Marion will not start until next Tuesday, although control is effective today, the office of price administration in Cleveland announced today, according to The Associated Press.

Rowland D. Schell, regional rent executive with offices in Cleveland, said difficulty in obtaining staffs and office space had made a weeks delay necessary.

The Gallipolis, O, district and five in Kentucky, Indiana and Michigan also will be affected in the week's delay.

John K Bartram Marion attorney, has been appointed administrator for the Marion area

Under OPA regulations all landlords in the rent control districts must now charge no more rent than they were charging last March 1

CLEAR WAY FOR HOME EXPANSION

Officials Push Means To Provide Houses for Workers.

Residents of Marion who wish to enlarge their houses so that they rent to defense workers will be granted very high priority ratings on the necessary materials, George A. Moore of Cleveland, district manager of defense housing for the northern Ohio area, announced today in a communication to The Star.

A maximum of $100 per room for critical materials requiring ratings will be allowed with not more than $800 per structure, he said. There is no limitation or discount of other materials that may be used Under the amended lumber order, it will be possible to obtain lumber for this kind of construction. Only living, dining and sleeping rooms, bathrooms and kitchens are to be recognized in this offer. Kitchenettes and dinettes will be counted as one-half room each

Applications from Marion will be accepted by the Columbus FHA office, and WPB processing is expected to take less than two weeks.

Mr. Moore explained his program is endeavoring to ease the rental situation in the various defense housing districts by promoting a more widespread knowl-

HERSHEY ISSUES DRAFT ORDER

Induction of Married Men To Be Eased Until Singles Are Called.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Sept. 1—Maj Gen. Lewis B. Hershey today instructed state selective service directors to arrange induction calls so that married men would not be drafted in some localities while single men were still uncalled in others.

The selective service director said state officials should arrange their calls on local boards "so as to place the heaviest load right now on boards having the most single men, or men with collateral dependents only."

Hershey's memorandum to state directors also instructed local boards to complete by Oct. 1 the initial classification of all registrants

Look To 1943 Calls

This speed-up must be made, he said, because "the serious military situation" requires that the selective service system be prepared to fill calls in 1943 which "will be equal to or in excess of the monthly calls made in August, September, and October of this year."

This procedure, Hershey said, will tend to level off inductions with "the usual objective of calling men from the small town and

Marion Co. Pilot Becomes Member of Fliers' Club

A Marion county airman, Second Lt. Jack W. Gompf, son of Mr and Mrs L. F. Gompf of Waldo, is now a member of the "Caterpillar Club" of fliers who have bailed out of their ships

According to a news report from Charlotte, N. C., he became a member last Thursday when he bailed out of his disabled ship near Catawba river after the motor went dead. Uninjured, he was on duty the next day.

According to state patrolmen who investigated, Gompf, piloting a P-40 fighter plane, landed in the top of a 50-foot tree on a farm near the river, about two miles from the place where the plane hit the ground on the river bank.

The ship, from which he parachuted at an altitude of 3,000 feet, was demolished.

Gompf climbed down out of the tree, walked to a roadside cafe some distance away and calmly drank a cup of coffee.

According to his parents, who were visiting him at Morris Field, the ship caught fire and he bailed out after getting it to an altitude to permit the jump.

Commissioned a second lieutenant last October, Gompf was an instructor at Brooks Field, Tex., until three weeks ago when he was assigned to an observation squadron at Morris Field. A graduate of Shaw High school in Cleveland in 1934, he was a student at Miami university when he enlisted in the air corps. At Miami he became affiliated with Beta Pi fraternity. He trained at Hatbox Field, Okla., Curtis and Brooks fields in Texas.

His father, who is purchasing agent for the Huber Mfg. Co., came to Marion last December. The family moved to Waldo about a month ago.

NAZI ARMIES START FOURTH YEAR OF WAR

Move Up More Men and Weapons for Renewed Stalingrad Attack.

By The Associated Press

Adolf Hitler's invasion armies started the fourth year of World war II today by hurling masses of reinforcements into the battle of Stalingrad and punching out in an apparently major new offensive in Egypt.

Hitler himself who has repeatedly promised "final" victory, told the German people they must make "the highest of sacrifices" in the coming winter months while Nazi troops "battle under scarcely imaginable deprivations"

Soviet dispatches said the Germans were moving up tremendous new forces of men and machines to bolster Gen Fedor Von Bock's two-months-old onslaught against Stalingrad, but Red army headquarters announced at noon

"During the night of Aug 31-Sept. 1, no significant changes took place at the front."

Blistering heat, so intense that candles melted in dugouts at night, beat down on the sun-parched steppes, and dispatches said the only relief found by soldiers was in the shadows cast by smoke rising from the battlefield

In quest of water, Russian and German troops were reported fighting bitterly for a well located in no-man's-land.

Marshal Semeon Timoshenko's valient defenders of Stalingrad beat off three German attacks northwest of the key Volga industrial city but acknowledged that the Nazis had deepened a wedge toward Stalingrad from the southwest.

The Russian command said at least 48 German tanks were destroyed and 2,000 Nazis killed

In the Caucasus, the Germans declared Rumanian troops had captured the Black sea port of Anapa, near the Kerch straits across from the Crimea, 30 miles north of the Russian naval base at Novorossisk The Red fleet abandoned the base several weeks ago

Dispatches to Pravda said German naval parties were attempting to raid the western Caucasus coast but said the attacks were being crushed while Soviet gunboats, torpedoboats and planes blasted Nazi-held ports from which the sallies were apparently being made.

Russian Cossacks were credited with wiping out 200 German parachutists south of Krasnodar and recapturing a populated point in a stiffening defense of the western Caucasus.

Far to the south, Soviet dispatches reported, Russian troops dispersed and partly annihilated a German force which attempted to cross a river in the central Caucasus, where the Germans have been stalled for days in their drive toward the Grozny oil fields

U. S. Land and Air Troops Fight with British in Africa

War Correspondent Describes New Attack Launched by Rommel in Egypt.

By EDWARD KENNEDY
AP War Correspondent

WITH ALLIED FORCES IN EGYPT'S WESTERN DESERT, Sept. 1—A new battle of the western desert with United States forces among Britain's allies both on the land and in the air, opened at dawn yesterday with an assault by Marshal Erwin Rommel's Afrika corps just north of the Qattara depression.

(The dispatch, which passed through allied censorship, made no reference to the size or type of the American land forces involved.)

Prepared for the attack was an allied defending force imbued with the spirit of grim determination expressed by Prime Minister Churchill to hold Egypt at all cost. Their new commanders were General Sir Harold Alexander and Lieut Gen Bernard Law Montgomery

Into this renewed battle for Egypt Rommel hurled armored columns supported by elite light infantry

Attack in South

The axis attack came in the southern sector of the El Alamein front

The German armor was attacked vigorously from the air and by artillery as it pushed toward the allied lines.

Rommel's 90th light infantry, to the north, was shelled heavily by British artillery as the Germans became tangled in minefields Then they were taken on by our forces

Fighting spread all along the 30-mile line leading northward to the Mediterranean near El Alamein village.

Rommel had pulled out his armor and many of his best troops and moved them by night some 14 miles from their bases to get in position for the attack in the south.

Preceding the assault were heavy axis bombings of allied desert camps These began as a half moon rose above the horizon and were followed by artillery barrages which started at 4 a m.

The RAF also was active during the night and as day broke an intensive counter-attack from the air began with American medium bombers and fighters participating.

B-25 Bombers New

American B-25's—the same kind of bombers used in the raid on Tokyo—went into action with formations of Bostons manned by South Africans, three times hurling high explosive bombs upon German armor and exacting a considerable toll.

The British call the B-25's Mitchells after the late General Billy Mitchell who was retired from the U. S army years ago

ROMMEL DRIVE SHAPING INTO MAJOR BATTLE

New Type of U. S. Bombers, Manned by Americans, Go Into Action.

By The Associated Press

CAIRO, Sept. 1 — An eight-mile German drive into the minefields on the southern flank of the El Alamein line in Egypt, rimming the Qattara depression, was reported today as new United States air forces went into action in what appeared to be a developing major battle

Against another German thrust, evidently seeking a soft spot in the center, the British were said to have held firmly.

The newest American medium bombers on the North African front—B-25's like those which bombed Tokyo—went into their first action with complete American air crews in a bombardment of axis transport columns while supporting American fighter pilots dispersed unusually large German dive-bomber formations.

New Battle Opens

Armored vanguards of perhaps 141,000 axis troops between El Alamein and Benghazi were said to be locked with light British forces, in what may be the opening phase of a struggle for mastery of the Nile valley, Suez and the whole Middle and Near East.

Although there was no official word the new assault was the opening of a new German offensive, there was no doubt in unofficial but well informed circles that General Marshal Erwin Rommel had begun a large-scale attack synchronized with the great battles in southern Russia

Fighting precipitated by an early morning attack by "strong enemy columns" raged throughout yesterday along the southern end of the British front in the western desert and allied bombers entered the fray last night to smash at concentrations of axis vehicles in the battle area, British headquarters said today.

The newest United States bombers to arrive in the Mediterranean war theater—twin-engined B-25's which the British call "Mitchell's"—have gone into active battle with complete American air force crews

The bombers inflicted heavy damage on the axis on the El Alamein-Qattara line before dark yesterday and damaged enemy transport in strong attacks on axis land convoys in the desert.

London View

British diplomatic circles in London said it was "quite possible" that Togo's removal reflected dissatisfaction over the conduct of the war, resulting from United Nations victories in the Solomon islands and at Milne Bay, New Guinea.

These quarters also suggested that the failure to launch an expected attack on Russia's maritime provinces in Siberia may have been involved in the cabinet shakeup.

Call on Married Men Delayed Until December

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, Sept. 1—Ohio selective service boards probably will not induct married men living with their wives, without children, before early December unless calls for men in the next three months are larger than usual, Col. C W Goble, state director, said today.

However, local boards are free to take these men immediately: single men with no dependents, single men with partial dependents. Married men who do not maintain a bona fide family relationship, men married at a time when selection was imminent, and men married since Dec. 8, 1941

Colonel Goble emphasized, however, that occupational deferments would keep some single men at home after boards had begun to take married men.

New instructions from Maj. Gen. Lewis B. Hershey, selective service director, include an order to speed up the process of appeals from induction orders.

Thief Drives Car to River Island, Takes Tires, Radio

A car owned by George Schweinfurth of near Prospect and stolen from a parking lot here on Aug. 17, was found, stripped of four tires and a radio, Saturday in the Scioto river a mile and a half southwest of Radnor, according to a news report from Delaware. Twenty-five pounds of sugar were still in the car.

It was found by Powell Yeager of Radnor when he drove his car to the river to wash it. The stolen car was partially concealed among the underbrush on an island in the river. It had been driven through nearly two feet of water to the island.

Undisturbed were 25 pounds of sugar, several blankets and other articles which Mr. Schweinfurth had placed in the rear seat shortly before the auto was taken. The stripped car was returned to the owner yesterday.

George Jacobs, 62, of Cardington was taken into custody by Morrow County Sheriff Oscar George and Deputy W. R. Cunningham Sunday for the Marion police department on an investigation charge in connection with recent bike thefts here.

Roger D. Jence, 21, of Ashland, has been held on investigation since Aug. 28 by Galion police authorities. In a letter to Chief of Police William E. Marks, Police Chief Merle D. Gow of Galion said that Pence figured in four thefts in Galion on Aug. 13. All four thefts were made within two hours. Two of the stolen bikes were sold at Galion hardware or auto equipment stores, a third was sold to an Ashland, O., hardware dealer and the fourth was found in Pence's possession at the time of his arrest in Ashland late in August.

DEMURRER FILED BY MARION LAWYER

Jacoby Answers Charge; To Hold Hearing.

J. Wilbur Jacoby, attorney charged with being convicted of a crime under federal laws and facing disciplinary action, today filed a demurrer to the charges in common pleas court.

Mr. Jacoby, representing himself, asks that the demurrer be sustained on six grounds, as follows:

1. The crime under which he is alleged to have been convicted is not a crime under the laws of Ohio. 2. The conviction set out in the complaint was not had in any court of Ohio, 3. It is not charged that the crime of which he was convicted was a crime involving moral turpitude. The charges do not allege any act done by him involving moral turpitude, 5. The charges do not set forth and charge disbarment, any ground or grounds of complaint which warrant any disciplinary action by the common pleas court under the laws of Ohio.

Common Pleas Judge Hector M. Young, said this morning he would set the date within a few days for hearing on the demurrer and that he would request that judge from outside Marion county preside

The charge against Mr Jacoby was filed last Friday by a three-member committee named by Judge Young to "prepare and file written charges, setting forth specifications covering the grounds of the complaint." The committee reported that Mr Jacoby was convicted on ten counts of an indictment, charging the use of the United States mails in furtherance of a scheme to defraud, and entering into a conspiracy for that purpose, that no appeal was taken from said conviction and that said conviction has not been reversed or set aside"

The committee was appointed after the Marion County Bar association filed a report concerning Mr. Jacoby's connection with Forest Glen, Inc. It was stated that he "is probably guilty of misconduct in his profession and office involving moral turpitude"

NEW and USED BOTTLE CAPS

Here Are Three Reasons Why We Refuse To Use Reclaimed or Used Bottle Caps

1—No method has yet been developed to adequately sterilize the used crown. Regardless of the method used there is always the danger of contamination.

2—Tests of reclaimed crowns show a percentage of leakers, special machines must be perfected before crowns can be properly reformed.

3—The effect on the customers psychologically because of the unsanitary conditions that used caps are subjected to.

Because of the restrictions on Bottle Caps it is not possible for us to manufacture as much Cleo-Cola and other beverages as our trade demands.

We sincerely hope that this condition is only temporary and that we will soon be able to furnish Cleo-Cola so that everyone can enjoy its rich flavor and goodness. Some of our bottle caps are repainted—they are new caps left over from discontinued flavors. Not one of these caps has ever been used before.

We will not use any reclaimed bottle caps until some method of sterilization has been determined. We will continue however to gather up all the used bottle caps and store them until such machinery is available to recondition these caps.

When you buy Cleo-Cola, Whistle, Barq's Root Beer, Bubble Up or any other beverage bottled in our plant you can rest assured that the cap on the bottle is a new one.

From where I sit . . .

by Joe Marsh

WHEN I drop into Sam Abernethy's store, I usually come away with something worth rememberin'.

Sam's our town's most successful storekeeper and he's not one to do much talking, unless he figures he's really got something to say.

Last evenin' he said plenty.

* * *

Stranger was in the store. And Ben Ryder, Homer Bentley and some others were talkin' about the scrap collection when this feller sort of horned in . . .

"I hear these scrap collections are a lot a bunk," he says. "Fact of the matter is, this junk they're gathering ain't no use for makin' steel. Just a waste of time gettin' it together . . ."

At that point Sam steps in.

"Just a minute," he says, fixing him with a cold and steely eye. "May I inquire where you got them so-called facts?"

The stranger hems and haws, and Sam advances on him grim and unsmilin'.

"Name your authority, sir," he says. And he wasn't kiddin'! "Tell us, where did you get all this inside, private information?"

Well, sir, I never saw Sam so mad since Lem Martin's dog chased the cat into the pickle barrel. And I guess I never saw a man crawfish out of a place fast as that fellow did.

* * *

Thinking it over afterwards, I came to the conclusion that Sam's got the real system for handling folks who throw facts and figures around free and easy like.

For instance, I've noticed there's some pretty fancy fact and figure juggling' done by some of those who oppose the right enjoyed by millions of decent people to drink a friendly glass of beer when they want to.

Lately I've been asking these folks the same kind of questions that Sam asked that rumormongerin' stranger. Try it yourself, next time you hear anybody making derogatory remarks—whether it's against the war effort . . . or just against beer.

CHAPTER 15
Unseen Enemy

Gil croaked out, "Well, what do you think of the old man?"

He doesn't look like a scientist," Sandy stated.

"Somehow I had the same impression," Gil answered, in his half-chiding way. "Chief, you don't suppose he is an archeologist, too, do you? Did you not see the way he acted when Tyra told him our business here?"

"He may be up here to explore the ruins," Sandy said, picking the main threads out of the warp of his thoughts. "But I doubt if he knows about the hiding place of the codex because, from what Tyra has said, they've been in this country several months. I didn't make that transition until January."

"There is certainly something about us he doesn't like," Gil went on. "If he is an archeologist he may resent our coming—may look on us as interlopers."

"Maybe. Although you'd think he'd welcome some assistance," Sandy said.

Helen put in abruptly. "For my part, I don't care whether the Flemings like us or not. We're here and that's a miracle. I'll confess now that I didn't think we ever would reach this place. Those days and days of fighting the jungle and all the narrow escapes we had." She shuddered in memory. "If you do through all of that and still live you've earned your right to walk on the face of the earth."

Sandy glanced at Helen in some astonishment. During the whole trip she had not spoken so much at one time. And, he realized with a start, that she did not look much like the woman who had reclined prettily in a hammock at Onha several weeks ago.

The difference was deeper than clothes and tan. The woman in Onha had been older, a flower withering on its stem. This woman had snap in her step and an eager light in her eyes. He could not understand it; did not try, for just then there were too many other matters to occupy his attention.

'Only Shadows'

They had hardly reached the opposite bank of the stream when, as Fleming had prophesied, darkness clamped down upon the ancient forest. By the light of their electric torches they gathered fuel and built a fire, prepared a sketchy meal and pitched their tents.

Afterward, they sat hunched over the coals discussing their future plans. Since they had been obliged to leave so many of their provisions at the Rio Flamboyon cache, it was imperative to make their stay in the Mayan city as brief as possible. For that reason Sandy stated that he did not believe they should take time to build permanent shelters, but instead should go after the codex at once, and if they secured it, return to Onha without delay.

"We'll spend tomorrow hunting, since we need fresh food, and begin our explorations of the city the following day," Sandy ended.

Even that one day was a concession for Sandy chafed to be at the business of locating the codex.

When Gil and Helen had retired to their tents Sandy took a turn around the camp to see that all was in order. It was very quiet, for the night jungle, almost ominously quiet, although Sandy knew that such country as this was not, properly speaking, a jungle.

There, hidden only by darkness and the columns of the big trees, was the Fleming camp with Tyra in it. She and her father would be talking, probably, of the trip; and maybe of other things about which he, Sandy, knew nothing.

Far off he heard the hoot of an owl. It was a lonely sound coming out of the darkness. It accentuated Sandy's feeling of isolation. Involuntarily he shivered and turned back to the camp.

Unasked Guest

Next day Gil and Sandy hunted on the game trails of the bush and came in with two turkeys and a deer. Helen went along and filled a crudely-woven reed basket with yucca roots, avocadoes and wild coffee.

Although they saw no one, Sandy had the uncomfortable sensation that they were being watched. Once he even thought he saw a moving figure in the gloom of the trees and flashed around on the instant, but nothing was there. Then he laughed at his fancy.

"Only shadows, I must be getting light-headed."

Gil's eyes narrowed. "I'm not so certain. There's something about this place that gives a fellow the creeps."

Helen was more specific. "I think the Flemings are spying on us."

Since there was no way of proving Helen's theory the matter was dropped.

Yet it was rather significant, Sandy reflected that evening, that none of the Flemings paid a call to their camp as might have been expected of neighbors in such a remote spot.

The following morning they were up and about early to prepare for their trip to the Mayan city. With flashlights and machetes, lunches and side-arms, they left camp and followed up the near bank of the stream. They had advanced but a short distance, however, when they heard someone call out to wait.

It was Tyra. She come running toward them through the aisles of the great trees, a slim deer-like figure of lightness and grace.

"If you're bound for the ruins do you mind if I go along?" she inquired, a little breathlessly. "I've always wanted to explore those pyramids."

Although Sandy's heart had leapt with pleasure at the sight of Tyra's vivid face, he hesitated to grant her request. If she accompanied them she would be certain to learn the true nature of their expedition and, with her own presence on the plateau open to question, it might not be wise to expose the secret of the codex.

While he was turning all this over in his mind Helen said pointedly, "If you wanted to explore the pyramids why haven't you done it before now, Tyra?"

Tyra laughed as if the question embarrassed her. "We've been busy with other things," and she added in haste to Sandy, "I'll try not to be any trouble."

She was like a wistful child begging a favor. It was impossible to refuse. To the devil with the secret of the codex! Besides, he wanted her with him when he found the treasure. It was as simple as that.

Sandy nodded his head. "All right, Tyra. But I can't guarantee anything interesting or amusing. It may be just hard work."

"I don't care," she asserted.

Sandy saw that Helen disapproved of his decision, but soon the entire incident passed from his mind for, a short distance further, through the twilight of the canopied forest, appeared a shadowy, cone-like mound. The first pyramid of the ancient Mayan city!

The sight charged all of them with impatience. They all but broke into a run and came to a halt only when they had reached the base of the pyramid.

CONSERVATION IS FAIR EXHIBIT THEME

Display Features Animals, Birds and Plants.

Among the interesting exhibits arranged for the 1942 Marion county fair is the conservation exhibit provided through the efforts of O. H. Neimeyer of Prospect, state game protector.

The display, set up next to the poultry exhibit, shows some of the game and game birds found in Marion county and also some of the varieties of trees and shrubs that the division of conservation furnishes free to landowners who will plant them for wildlife food and cover.

On display are some of the best food and cover plants to use along fence rows and a feeding station that conservation officials have found to be the best type to use during heavy snow or sleet storms.

Live pheasants of various kinds, several kinds of wild ducks, blue and Canadian geese, squirrels, raccoons and foxes are on display, together with a collection of mounted animals and birds.

Mr Neimeyer expects to be at the exhibit most of the time to answer questions on conservation of wildlife and natural resources.

Boy Scouts will be on duty at all times, prepared to answer questions about the exhibit and to accept subscriptions to the Ohio Conservation Bulletin, a monthly illustrated magazine edited under auspices of the Ohio Division of Conservation. The magazine, which does not carry advertising, is sold for 50 cents a year and is devoted to Ohio fishing and hunting and allied information. It gives new hunting and fishing laws, fish and game distribution, and interesting information about Ohio's lakes, parks, fish, birds, trees, flowers and everything pertaining to the outdoors.

MacArthur Promotes Lehrbas To Colonel

By The Associated Press

GEN. MacARTHUR'S HEADQUARTERS, AUSTRALIA, Sept. 1 — General Douglas MacArthur has promoted his aide, Lieut. Col. Lloyd Lehrbas to a full colonel. The advancement followed upon Lehrbas' return to headquarters from a mission to the New Guinea battle fronts.

Lehrbas, whose home is at Pocatello, Idaho, obtained leave from the Associated Press soon after the United States went into the war and joined MacArthur's staff. His promotion came on the eve of the third anniversary of the bombing of Warsaw of which Lehrbas wrote a vivid account for The Associated Press.

Incredible China

"GIVE US 500 PLANES", pleaded the Chinese just a few weeks ago, "and we will drive the enemy back into the sea".

China didn't get 500 planes. She got probably one-tenth of that number but she has used them to keep her promise and the Japanese are being driven helter skelter back toward the sea.

It is an amazing phase of five amazing years since China was invaded. This, the world now knows, is not the old mystic China which lived for many centuries behind its great stone wall but a new and modernized nation marching to its place among the great peoples of the world.

China has always had a prodigious capacity for work and suffering and in this lies the secret of her survival. Since the Japanese invaded, she has built more than 1,000 factories so widely scattered through her interior that bombing planes cannot reach them. She has trained an army of 5,000,000 fighting men. She has built fine air fields with no tools but the hands and the primitive shovels of her swarming workers. She has maintained schools to train her youth for leadership in the pursuits of war and of peace.

China has been ignored, exploited and humiliated by the nations of the world but now her valor, her unbeatable spirit and her do or die devotion to the principles of national integrity have won her a place among the great nations of the world.

China has washed away the past of sleeping centuries in oceans of blood and tears and has found a soul and a spirit that earns for her a place among the forward marching peoples of the world.

She has earned, more immediately, the help from the United Nations which she needs to finish the job so brilliantly started and so effectively carried on.

Bachelor Pool

DECISION to pool single men now awaiting draft call is a move in the direction of uniforming which the selective service law needs. It means that married men in one part of the country will not be called in mass until married men from all the country are summoned.

Practically nobody complains about selective service on the whole because all understand that it is inevitable and that it is the fairest and most efficient way of building an army. There have been some perfectly reasonable criticisms because there has been no standard yardstick for measuring the selectees.

General rules were laid down but their application was left to the discretion of the many local boards. The interpretations varied just as there always are variations when men of different minds make their own decisions.

Thus a man in one district went into service while another was deferred because he happened to live on the other side of the district line.

Some boards already have dipped into their lists of married men while some have single men available. The pooling plan evens things up. It is an equitable and reasonable move.

Younger Blood

ORGANIZED labor of Ohio turned to younger leadership when Phil Hannah of Cleveland was elected to the important post of secretary-treasurer of the Ohio Federation of Labor succeeding Thomas J. Donnelly, nearly 75, who had held the post for 20 years. Several others who had held office for two decades or more were replaced by younger men.

The new officers have responsibilities and opportunities given to few men. The nation's war effort puts upon their shoulders and upon their hearts obligations as grave as those carried by leaders of the armed forces. Only half of the job of winning this war falls upon the men in uniform. The other half of the task belongs to the men who labor to produce the tools of war.

The driving energy of young men can be a vital contribution to victory but it must be balanced by the sound judgment and broad vision associated commonly but not necessarily with age and experience.

Mr. Hannah and his associates face an opportunity to earn for themselves the nation's gratitude and acclaim if they can lead their great organization in unity on its one important job of winning this war.

We Can Do Better

HIGHWAY deaths in the United States during the first seven months of 1942 were 17 per cent under the number for the same period in 1941 but the number is still too high.

Decreasing use of automobiles and lower speed for the ones still in use played a large part in cutting down the nation's traffic toll. The scrapping of 2,000,000 jalopies to feed the blast furnaces was another contributing factor.

It is a good record but not good enough. With all the improvement, the number of Americans killed by autos is still higher than the number killed in action in the first seven months of the war.

America's highway death toll has been a national disgrace. We are making progress in the right direction but there is still room for improvement as long as any driver takes the chances that invite accident.

News Behind the News

Baruch Committee Ready To Report Rubber Shortage Is "Real."

By PAUL MALLON

WASHINGTON, Sept. 1 — The Baruch committee has gone far enough to find the rubber shortage is real and the need for conservation is not just an outgrowth of the confused meanderings of government bureaus on the subject.

A preliminary statement to this effect may be issued by the committee in a few days. It will be followed later on by a more copious analysis of the situation carrying recommendations as to what should be done.

The preliminary report, however, will open the way for a hotter national campaign by the oil companies to educate motorists in rubber conservation. Some authorities here feel that if they can get wholehearted national cooperation in limiting speeds to 40 miles an hour, and an earnest conservation program into operation, the most dangerous results of the hoarder can be avoided or delayed.

No one here now wants national gas rationing.

More Rubber Plants

I have been asking officials and experts why the government could not take advantage of the closing down of some factories and the unemployment around some cities, like New York to institute a bigger synthetic rubber production program, devoted to absorbing this idle slack.

A synthetic rubber production authority could be inaugurated by the government to pursue an affirmative tire producing program.

The objections are logical, but not insurmountable. They say synthetic rubber makers must be trained. The unemployed are largely salesmen, or in the unskilled labor class.

They say the existing program requires particular machinery of a character which already has been called into use in the existing program. They say the existing program calls for such hard-to-get materials as 50,000 tons of soap, 143,000 tons of salt, etc.

It is true much is being done now that is not being advertised. The Dow Chemical Plant, in Michigan, is proceeding so rapidly it will be ready to produce synthetic rubber in January. Tire companies are now already producing tires out of reclaimed rubber.

The army is being told it cannot use rubber for everything when available substitutes will do just as well.

Much criticism has been offered of government cancellation of the $110,000,000 Indiana synthetic engineering plant, but it appears the cancellation came about because the government discovered old gas manufacturing plants in Los Angeles and San Francisco, which could be put in order to produce synthetic rubber for only $7,000,000.

What the situation notably needs is singleheaded affirmative government leadership, which will promise that it "can" produce as much as possible, and a cessation of the "can't" policy.

The Baruch committee is expected to point the way to do this in the analytical second section of its report.

Home War Policy

Time is now ripening for an overall change of government home war policy to the same affirmative ground on many fronts.

Up to now, the government has been stressing the necessity of getting as much domestic obstruction as possible into the war effort. Other lines have been trimmed, cut or crushed.

This was necessary. The suddenness with which we were plunged into war required quick conversion of utmost economic energy into the production of war goods, while other lines of business suffered.

Correction of defects in this conversion job remains to be accomplished, as the current predicament of WPB on raw materials illustrates. Once these are corrected, the time will have arrived for a new phase of Washington concentration.

It will be found that in order to support the home front, to enable business to pay the kind of taxes congress is enacting, to curb inflation, to provide employment, and to sustain the national economy, the government will have to switch to a line of encouragement for consumer business and production of civilian use materials to the fullest extent possible.

Wars can be lost on the home front. In fact, victory has never been won on the battle line by a nation economically disorganized.

Draft Policy

The same change will have to be made in draft policy, eventually. Up to now, in the rush to raise an adequate army, the government has been registering and threatening to draft everyone, without particular regard to physical defects, age, dependencies, and in some spots, even to war work.

Such a policy was justifiable, (even if not made necessary to the extent of General Hershey's recent speeches) because the raising of an army was a primary consideration.

But the maintenance of civilian life at home is the next consideration. The day is not far off when the army will be raised and the government draft policy will have to be refocused to the proposition of maintaining the home, the family and their support.

Not many people have thought of it this way yet, perhaps, but it is true that if everyone in the country were drafted into the army, we would lose the war. There would be no other business than that of the state, and all dependents would be living at the expense of the state, producing nothing themselves. Taxes to support everyone would be nil.

Thus the real objective is not the drastic one which official speeches have reflected thus far, but a balance between army needs and civilian life so that both may be properly maintained.

18-19 Year Olds

A phase of this overlooked situation lies in the current discussion about drafting 18 and 19 year olds. Some mothers (but not fathers, judging from my mail) think it would be unfair of the government to take men so young.

They should appreciate that it is a question of taking either their husbands or their boys. If the husbands are all called, the economic source of life of the family is gone. The 18 and 19 year olds are those who have not yet reached the place where they are supporting dependents.

But this, of course, is not the main reason why the war department really wants them, but is merely the moral and economic justification which should appeal to all mothers. The army wants them simply because they make more efficient soldiers than their fathers.

From News of Other Years

TEN YEARS AGO

It was Thursday, Sept. 1, 1932.

Roy N. Lovett resigned as teacher of vocational agriculture in the Green Camp and Agosta schools to enter Ohio State university and complete his studies for a master of arts degree. He was succeeded in the Marion county post by R. N. White of Chandlersville.

Mr. and Mrs. James F. Lawrence and daughters Patricia Ann and Mary Catherine of Hubbard were guests at the D. F. Lawrence home on Avondale avenue.

Mrs. A. A. Starner and daughter Miss Mary Starner returned from St. Louis, where Miss Starner closed a season's engagement with the Municipal Opera Co. on Aug. 30.

A. C. Edmondson, 78, president of the Fahey Banking Co., died in City hospital.

Miss Margaret Williams, who was to be married Oct. 1, was complimented with a bridge and shower party given by Mrs. F. E. McWherter and Miss Verna Mae McWherter at their home on North Prospect street.

TWENTY YEARS AGO

It was Friday, Sept. 1, 1922.

A temporary injunction restraining all striking shop craft workers and their leaders from interfering in any way in operation of the railroads of the country was granted by federal Judge James A. Wilkerson in Chicago at the request of Attorney-General Daugherty. The government's action was understood to be based upon a precedent established in the famous Debs case in 1894, when President Cleveland secured an injunction in the western railway strike.

The French cabinet approved a decision of the inter-allied reparations commission to accept German bonds instead of cash for indemnity payments. From Berlin came a dispatch reporting that food riots were occurring at Eberwalde. Hungry mobs smashed shop windows and looted stores. In fighting with police many persons were wounded.

The feature picture at the Grand theater was "The Ordeal" starring Agnes Ayres and at the Marion Wesley Barry had the leading role in "Penrod."

The T. F. Rogers building occupied by G. L. Porter's confectionary store on Bellefontaine avenue was badly damaged by fire.

Many Marion streets were flooded, the electric lighting system was put out of commission and numerous trees damaged by lightning and wind in a high velocity storm which struck Marion at about 8 p. m.

Italy's Industries Move

From The National Geographic Society.

AS the Nazis drove toward Russia's oil, the toll of machines and materials is reflected in reports that Germany is moving Italy's industrial plants into the Reich and draining Italian man power to staff factories in the Reich, says the National Geographic society.

An obvious weakness of the German-Italian alliance is Italy's lack of raw materials.

Before the war Italy depended upon Germany for coal. Normally, she looked to Germany for about one half of her requirements (about 7 million tons a year); to Britain for a fourth. Much of the imported tonnage was waterborne. Britain's blockade put a severe burden on Italian factories for movement of German coal by rail. Coal deposits in the Apennines and at the base of the Alps yielded about two million tons a year. With the outbreak of the war, Germany became virtually Italy's sole source of supply.

By subsidies Italy tried to become independent of foreign iron sources. This effort failed. Only one-fourth of the country's needs came from domestic mines, with the islands of Sardinia and Elba the chief sources. Imports of iron and steel from Germany have kept Italian industry going. German shipment in bars, rods, sheets and manufactures of iron and steel in a representative year amounted to $15,000,000. From Germany also came machine tools, agricultural and textile machinery, electric generators, motors and other apparatus to the amount of $25,000,000 in a year.

BEFORE the war Italy was second only to Japan in the buying of scrap iron and steel. In the six months preceding Italy's war entry, her purchases of iron and steel scrap from the United States were running about 50 per cent above 1939 purchases. Italy's steel output topped old records in 1939, but sagged a bit in 1940, though still maintaining a better than average level.

Among all Italian industries textiles are most important. Silk culture has been practiced for generations throughout Italy, flourishing in Lombardy, Piedmont and Venetia. Cotton and rayon products had become notable in diversity and quantity. Chemicals were improving in processing and production, with volume output of sulphuric acid, phosphates and copper sulphate.

Long before the war Italy's wares had won wide acceptance for their beauty and worth. Cities famous for their cultural contributions were no less distinguished industrially. Readily accessible as trading centers and rich in the skills of their people Milan and Turin shone industrially with special luster.

The Milanese regarded themselves as citizens of Italy's industrial capital and acclaimed their city the center of the country's cotton industry. Flax, jute, wood and linen processing occupied many workers. Thousands of others produced chemicals, electric cables and silk. Craftsmen fashioned gold, silver, bronze and leather goods. Tulles, velvets, shawls and gloves attested the skills of local artisans.

FROM Milan also came locomotives and railroad cars, and automobiles for foreign and domestic markets. To Milan Europe looked for many of the boilers, motors, turbines and pumps to equip her factories. Much of Italy's telephone and telegraph apparatus bears Milan firm names. Precision instruments for the scientist and surgeon, and musical instruments added to Milan's fame.

Turin led all Italian cities in automotive products. Pleasure automobiles, motor trucks, planes and aircraft were her chief industrial products. Other volume manufactures were chemicals, high explosives, railway cars and uniforms. To the world's luxury markets she sent vermouth, chocolate and caramels.

In respect to Germany's man power available to keep the war machine functioning at peak efficiency, a current figure puts the number of foreign workers in the Reich at 6,000,000. Drafts from conquered and "collaborating" countries are said to increase that figure by 8,000 a week. Half the total are civilians; the remainder are prisoners of war. Excepting the war prisoners, the Germans have held to the pious fiction of voluntary action on the part of transplanted foreigners contributing to the war effort. It is clear enough that 'made in Germany' no longer means made solely by Germans.

The Stogie Survives

From Imperial Magazine.

AMERICANS will try anything once. Let one anything new is welcomed and given a trial. But Americans are reluctant to give up anything good and so stogies, a pre-Revolutionary invention, continue to enjoy a good sale.

At a cocktail party or other social function it is not a remote possibility that an important guest will be smoking a stogie. If you spot a man with a stogie you can usually place him geographically. He lives or once lived in some state midway between our northern and southern boundaries — Pennsylvania, West Virginia, Kentucky, Ohio, Indiana and Illinois. However, the distribution of stogies is nearly universal. They're bought and smoked with satisfaction in New York and California.

The stogies were devised by the drivers of the Conestoga wagons. These large vehicles, pulled usually by a six-horse team and capable of carrying five-ton loads were the freight carriers of the 18th century, hauling manufactured goods from Baltimore to the western terminus of the national pike at Wheeling, W. Va., and returning with frontier produce. They moved in trains of thirty to forty wagons. To occupy themselves, the teamsters would roll cigars from the tobacco which constituted part of their load. At first called Conestogas by the smokers of the villages along the route, the word was later shortened to stogas, and finally to stogies.

The manufacture of the stogie was begun commercially about 1820 in Wheeling, still a center of production.

The modern stogie is about six inches long and slightly less than half an inch in diameter, quite similar to a Panatella cigar except that the closed end is twisted to a long thin point. Originally the stogie was filled with short tobacco, but in the last half century the filler generally has been long leaf laid straight for the full length. Stogies sell at two for a nickel, three for a dime, and a nickel each.

In the early days, men liked a strong, powerful smoke, and they got it and can still get it. But the majority now favor a milder stogie made with Dutch filler from the Miami Valley section of Ohio, wrapped in Connecticut leaf.

Some wealthy men keep Corona Coronas on hand for guests, but refuse to smoke anything but stogies themselves.

Daily Bible Thought

God has given every one some talent. He expects us to use this God-given power to help humanity, at home, in social relationships, in church and school. We betray a trust when we hide a talent. "And I was afraid and went away and hid the talent in the earth."—Matt 25:25.

Women Face Call for Service and Office Holders Ought To Be in Uniform If They Are Fit.

By DAMON RUNYON

EVERY able-bodied woman in the United States should now be preparing herself for some phase of the war effort, because full service of them will be required and perhaps drafting before the middle of next year.

The drain upon the man-power of the nation for military purposes will be so tremendous that the women will have to be used for almost every form of war production. They will have to be used to replace the men in the industries in the mercantile world, in farming, in office work, in connection with the public utilities and in all other fields.

Their part in the war will not be limited to the well meant and useful but scarcely energetic activity of social service. They will be required to do plenty of the heavy lifting. It is my guess that all women will be officially summoned and examined as to their physical and mental fitness to service and then assigned to certain duties the same as the men.

Within the next few months I think you will see all men in jobs not deemed absolutely essential to the war effort replaced by women. This must include all civic, state and national governmental jobs, elective or appointive, as well as the jobs in the factories. We have many eligible for service holding public office or who should be serving the colors because the public office is absolutely essential in war.

THERE is no public office that cannot be filled by a woman or a man past the age of military service, if it is considered necessary that the office be filled at all, hence no present office holder can be considered immune from service if otherwise eligible.

With the government now calling up men of 40 and over and with the calling of the 18 year old boys almost a certainty after the election, it becomes clear that the time for shilly-shallying about military service is over and there can no longer be any immunity from this service for men qualified to serve regardless of their positions in social or civil life or their political connections.

Personally, I feel that the calling of men over 40 borders in most cases on the ridiculous and lays the foundation for the greatest future pension roll in the history of the civilized world, but since that is the policy, though it may be intended only to break the force of the blow to the parents of the land when the kids are summoned, there should be mighty few exemptions anywhere and none among the big people.

IN the meantime, too, the military ought to be clearing the night clubs of young officers in uniform and rounding up those who seem to be enjoying protracted vacations throughout the country. There might also be some abatement of what you might call the extra-curricular activity connected with both the army and navy, such as elaborate athletic programs that seem to demand all the time and attention of many healthy young men who surely are better qualified for combat service than the middle-aged fellows who are now being called.

This extra-curricular activity may have been all right in the early stages of our war experience to attract attention and in some cases money to the service, but when you are reaching into the highest and the lowest age brackets for men to bear arms the time to stop kidding around has arrived.

Chinese Develop New Gas-Coal Unit

By The Associated Press

CHUNGKING—A new high efficiency convertor unit for producing gas from coal for the operation of trucks and motor cars developed by Hsu Chu-fei, Chinese engineer, has passed initial tests.

The new convertor produced gas so rapidly that the test car was put in motion within 55 seconds after the fire in the convertor furnace was started.

According to the designer the unit will produce ten per cent more power than any existing convertor unit. Hsu said the average truck equipped with his convertor unit would be able to travel approximately 120 kilometers without refueling.

On Fair Night Show Program

"SCENES FROM "A NIGHT AT THE CIRCUS"

Two four-star attractions headline the entertainment program for Thursday and Friday nights at the Marion County fair which opened today. On Thursday night the Gus Sun circus will be featured and on Friday night the Renfro Valley Barn Dance troupe will provide the entertainment. The show Thursday night is scheduled for 8 p. m. and on Friday night the program will be at 7:30.

An all-variety unit, especially designed as an outdoor attraction, will present "A Night at the Circus" on Thursday night. The Bento Bros. & Rita, will feature a three-high adagio act, head-to-head stands and balancing feats, the Merrill Brothers and Sisters will feature an equilibristic act and Earl Wrights Wonder Dogs will go through their tricks. The Merrill Brothers and Sisters have toured the United States, Canada, Cuba and Isles of the West Indies where they have been acclaimed peers in their work. Their act is further enhanced by beautiful costumes and settings.

Shorty Hobbs and Eller, Ernest Lee, Billy Williams and the Cove Creek Girls will entertain Friday night's fair patrons. As a regular part of the Renfro Valley Barn Dance from Renfro Valley, Ky., they will entertain with songs, music and sketches. Shorty Hobbs and his little girl friend, "Eller," will present an unusual and entertaining dance and promise to "stop the show."

Ernest Lee, favorite of thousands of listeners, will sing hillbilly tunes in Renfro Valley style, while Billy Williams, one of the newest members of the Sundodgers, excels on the guitar and in voice. From Pinch-em-tight Hollow, near Natural Bridge, Ky., come Lily May Ledford, her two sisters, Rosie and "Black-Eyed Susie," and a former neighbor of theirs, Violet Koehler. One of the first all-girl bands in radio, the girls are seasoned troupers and play practically any instrument in the ensemble. Lily May is especially handy with the five-string banjo, an instrument rarely met with outside the Southern mountain area. The troupe's big break came in June of 1939 when they were invited to the White House to present their old songs and tunes for the entertainment of the King and Queen of England on their visit to this country.

Detroit Bows Out of American League Pennant Chase, Lose to Yanks, 8-3

Major League Teams Slowly Dropping Out of Pennant Picture.

By The Associated Press

ONE by one the also rans are bowing out of even a mathematical chance at the pennants.

The Detroit Tigers dropped by the wayside yesterday, leaving only the first division in the American league still contending with the New York Yankees. The Pittsburgh Pirates may go today, leaving the National league with the same situation, and even the Cincinnati Reds, picked for the pennant by some observers last spring, may meet their doom this week.

The Yankees themselves took care of the disposal of Detroit with an 8-3 triumph.

The Tigers in the ninth tallied three times on an error and four hits. However, the world champions had provided amply for such an emergency by scoring early and often on a dozen hits, two of them homers each with one on board.

The Pirates, who are within half a game of being eliminated from a pennant chance, were nosed out 5-4 in 11 innings by Brooklyn.

But in the end the Dodgers pushed across the winning run on two singles and a wild throw by Elbie Fletcher to boost their lead over the idle St. Louis Cardinals to 3½ games.

The New York Giants bagged their sixth straight conquest with a 7-6 decision over the Chicago Cubs.

The weak-hitting Reds surprised their followers by also manufacturing a five-run inning and overpowered the Philadelphia Phils 8-1 in a night game. Elmer Riddle pitched five-hit ball and Eric Tipton provided him with an early margin by homering with one on.

The Boston Red Sox kept within eight games of the Yanks by setting down the St. Louis Browns 8-6.

In the day's only other American league action the Chicago White Sox swept a double bill from the Philadelphia Athletics 3-2 and 5-0.

THIRD ROUND UP IN TENNIS TOURNEY

National Contest Reaches Interesting Stages.

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, Sept. 1—The national tennis championships began to get down to cases at Forest Hills today, after nearly a week of extremely boresome competition.

A couple of promising third-round matches were on tap, in one, Sidney Wood Jr., the veteran New Yorker who won a Wimbledon championship a decade ago in short pants, ran into Alejo Russell, champion of the Argentine.

In the other, Harris Everett, former University of North Carolina star, faced Pancho Segura, the little jitterbug from Ecuador.

Only two other men's singles were scheduled. Ted Schroeder Jr., the tournament's top-seeded star, playing James Evert of Chicago, and Seymour Greenberg, the national clay court champion, meeting Robert Smidl of Chicago.

Two players, William Talbert of Cincinnati, and Lieut. Gardnar Mulloy of Jacksonville, already have won their third round matches. Talbert triumphed at the expense of Vincent Paul of New York yesterday, 6-3, 6-2, 6-4, while Mulloy scraped through against Tom Brown Jr. of San Francisco, 6-0, 6-3, 4-6, 5-7, 6-1.

Only one seeded competitor was missing as the sixth day of play began. This was Mrs. Patricia Canning Todd of New York, the sixth seeded woman player, who was eliminated by Mrs Madge H. Vosters of Lansdowne, Pa., 1-6, 6-3, 9-7.

NEW YORK, Sept. 1—That college football season you've been hearing so much about gets under way today with the "official" opening of practice in most sections. If the folks in Washington are serious about cancelling the Army-Navy game at Philadelphia, why not let them play without spectators and make the most of the broadcast that has been sold for $100,000?

• • •

Today's Guest Star—Chick Morse, Worcester, Mass., Evening Gazette. "This is the season when the college grid coach looks over the crop of candidates and starts telling the scribes how badly the situation looks ..He's setting the stage to prepare the boys for sad tidings should his club get bumped off frequently and on the other hand, should his club have a good season it will make him look all the better."

• • •

Service Dept. — Hard luck tale: Lieut. Eddie Duchin, who was one of the first to contribute to the special army emergency relief fund, had two of those $100 tickets for the Bears-All Stars game and he had a date, but he couldn't leave from the naval training school at Northwestern U.

Agricultural Note — Larry MacPhail, boss man of the Dodgers, recently won a couple of blue ribbons at a Maryland fair with his Aberdeen Angus cattle... Bill Terry of the Giants has a fine herd of Jerseys...And Leo Durocher, Frank Frisch and Jimmy Dykes have been known to raise a beef now and then.

Kansas City Blues Regain Control of Association Lead

By The Associated Press

While mathematicians were figuring how Columbus and Milwaukee stood in the see-saw American association pennant drive today, Kansas City sneaked out in front.

This came about last night when the Louisville Colonels enjoyed themselves by pasting a 2 to 1 defeat on the Red Birds. Milwaukee and Kansas City were idle.

Columbus' defeat created these percentage standings:

	W.	L.	Pct
Kansas City	80	66	.548
Columbus	79	66	.51482
Milwaukee	78	65	.51515

All teams go into action tonight with the Blues entertaining the unpredictable Minneapolis Millers; Columbus taking on Indianapolis at home, and Milwaukee playing host to last-place St. Paul.

The Colonels downed Columbus after a 10-inning pitcher's battle between Louis Lucier and the Birds' Red Barrett. Lucier was touched for seven hits while Barrett scattered four, only to lose when his teammate, Third Baseman Johnny Antonelli, failed to cover his base.

The Colonels scored their winning run this way: Lazor doubled and was replaced by Lingua to run the bases. Gilbert bunted down third base line. Barrett fielded the ball and started to throw to third only to see the position vacant. He wheeled and threw to first, but the toss was low and late and allowed Lingua to score.

The extra-inning contest was No 74 for the season and broke the league record for overtime games, set in 1910 when 73 were played.

In the only game last night, Toledo defeated Indianapolis, 1 to 0.

Ohio Champion Barely Defeats Cincinnatian

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, Sept. 1 — Tony Caminitti, 22, of Columbus, Ohio A.A.U. featherweight champion and national runner-up, barely squeezed out a five-round decision over Art Edmerson, 124, of Cincinnati, on an inter-city amateur boxing card last night.

Although Caminitti won the judges' nod, there were mingled cheers and jeers from the fans when the verdict was announced. The Central Ohio scrappers earned a 5 to 3 decision over Cincinnati.

Other results:

Sam Button, 134, Cincinnati, defeated Jack Groff, 133, Lancaster, three rounds.

Homer Bigham, 160, Lancaster, defeated Lee Moore, 158, Cincinnati, five rounds.

Double-Headers Sunday End Mid-Atlantic Play

By The Associated Press

CHARLESTON, W. Va., Sept. 1—The Charleston Senators hit the Mid-Atlantic league's stretch drive with a four-game lead today, compiled partly from a double triumph over Springfield last night while the second-place Dayton Ducks were losing to Erie.

Canton and Zanesville meanwhile battled 18 innings—the longest Mid-Atlantic game of the season—before Canton was able to edge out a 5 to 4 victory in its own park. A walk with the bases loaded and one out in the ninth extra frame finally decided the issue.

The season closes with double-headers next Monday. Save one long day in June, when Erie slipped into the front row, Charleston has led the league since May 11.

The Senators defeated Springfield 1 to 0 and 9 to 1, while Erie was nosing out the Ducks 3 to 2 in 10 innings.

PITT'S PANTHERS FACE DULL SEASON BUT WILL PLAY ON

De-emphasis Policy Expected To Take Zip Out of Once Mighty Team.

This is one of a series of articles on football prospects of leading mid-western colleges and universities.

• • •

By The Associated Press

PITTSBURGH, Sept. 1—Pitt's once proud and magnificent Panthers will keep right on playing their football for the fun of it in 1942.

It's a bitter pill for alumni accustomed to those conquering Panther elevens, but it is one they must take for the fourth straight year. They knew it was coming in 1939, when athletic boss Jimmy Hagan intimated strongly the game no longer would be "big business" at Pitt, culminating in the resignation of the Panthers famed ringmaster, Jock Sutherland.

Significance of 1942

Significant of this de-emphasized policy as the new gridiron season approaches are:

1. Pitt probably won't have more than 40 boys out for football—one of the smallest squads in the school's history.

2. While many schools have signified intentions of using freshmen to offset material shortages, Pitt will not unless absolutely necessary. "It was a good rule before the war and it should be a good one now," declares Hagan.

3. Only 14 players remain from last year's first-string squad. Gone are "Special Delivery" Edgar Jones an explosive back, and Ralph Fife of Canton, O., one of finest guards in Pitt's history.

4. Pitt will continue to play over its head." The Panthers lead off with Minnesota's Golden Gophers, at a date normally reserved for a "breather" opponent, and beyond that, all eager to twist the Panther tail, are such "toughies" as Southern Methodist, Duke, Ohio State, Great Lakes Penn State, and Nebraska.

And so, if the Panthers should explode another amazing upset, as they did last year against mighty Fordham, the most skeptical expert will admit it was strictly unlooked for.

"No, I can't say that we'll be improved," says likeable 43-year-old Coach Charlie Bowser, whose teams have won but 11 games and tied one other while losing 14 in the three years of the post-Sutherland era. "This far away we don't even know what boys we'll have."

"After all you don't lose boys like Jones, our best ball carrier last year, and a key lineman like Fife and not feel it," continued Bowser. "Our squad will be too inexperienced and small for that schedule. It won't be a fast team, nor will it be a heavy one."

19 Players Lost

Among the 19 boys Pitt lost were both regular ends the first-string guards, a tackle, and a halfback.

The Pitt '42 card:

Sept. 26, Minnesota at Minneapolis; Oct. 3, Southern Methodist; Oct. 10, Great Lakes at dist.; Oct. 17, Indiana; Oct. 24, Duke; Oct. 31, Carnegie Tech; Nov. 7, Ohio State at Columbus; Nov. 14, Nebraska; Nov. 21, Penn State at State College.

Pirates Buy 4 Stars from Albany, N. Y., Team

By The Associated Press

PITTSBURGH—The Pittsburgh Pirates have purchased four players from the Albany, N. Y., club of the Eastern league with which the Bucs have a working agreement.

The players, Pitchers Xavier Fred Rescigno and Russ Bauers, Infielder James Cullinane and Outfielder Ralph Kiner, will report at a time to be designated by Manager Frankie Frisch. Bauers played with the Pirates several years but went back to the minors last year because of a leg injury, being sold outright to Albany after having been optioned to Jersey City of the International league.

Rescigno has attracted attention because of his 20 wins and six losses this season with Albany. He is 28 years old and has been in the minor leagues several seasons.

High School Athletes Begin Fall Football Drill Session Today

27 Answer Irish Grid Call; To Play First Game Sept. 25; New Harding Coach To Use System Similar to Williams'.

A hundred or more Marion high school athletes began fall football practice today for the first wartime football season in 25 years. This year's grid program is more important as a morale builder for youth than ever before. The U. S. armed services demand physically fit and disciplined men. To turn out this type of athlete will be one of the primary objectives of Marion's new coaches. Championships, all coaches today realize, are of secondary importance.

New coaches dominate the picture at this early writing.

A former St. Mary athlete, Gene Fetter, will temporarily direct the Irish football program. He recently was sworn into the U. S. army air corps and will remain here until called to active service.

At Harding, Victor Dorris, formerly Granville High school coach, replaces William O. "Bill" Williams as head coach. He will be assisted by Joe Petrich, former Edison Junior High school coach and athletic director.

5 Lettermen Form Harding Nucleus

In discussing the 1942 North Central Ohio league football prospects, and particularly Harding's position in league warfare, new Coach Victor Dorris revealed that the system he will employ here will be similar to that used by Coach Bill Williams in the last four years.

Among those who reported for uniforms at Harding stadium yesterday morning were Capt. Keith Williams, LeRoy Harvey, Tom Hurst, Harold Jenkins and Don Kay, all returning lettermen.

First practice period was held this morning under the direction of Assistant Coach Joe Petrich, former Edison mentor. Following lunch, the Harding grid candidates returned to Harding stadium for an afternoon workout. The two-a-day program will be continued until school opens Sept. 14.

At least two youths who were expected to play no small part in the Harding football picture will enter military schools this year. They are Tom Boyd, who has been enrolled in the Kentucky Military Institute for the last two years, and John Schaffner, who will begin studies at Culver Military Academy, Culver, Ind.

27 Irish Candidates Issued Uniforms

Irish grid candidates this morning began a two-day practice schedule which will continue until school opens Sept. 8 at the Aronhalt lot on North Prospect street.

Twenty-seven candidates were issued uniforms at the high school yesterday under the direction of Coach Fetter and the student managers.

The Irish have over three weeks to prepare for their first game Sept. 25 at Tiffin against the high-powered Tiffin Calvert eleven.

By The Associated Press

CHICAGO — Three Big Ten schools, plus Notre Dame and three service camps, begin football practices Tuesday, and within a week most midwestern colleges will be included.

Because of enlarged schedules and earlier starting dates for opening games, Big Ten officials waived the customary Sept. 10 date for starting drills.

Wisconsin, Purdue and Iowa will call their men to the gridiron Tuesday. Indiana opens drills Thursday, with Michigan, Minnesota, Ohio State, Northwestern and Illinois holding over until Monday.

The Irish of Notre Dame also report Tuesday and at the same time service men will change to football uniforms at the Great Lakes Naval Training station, the Iowa City Preflight school and at Fort Knox, Ky.

DODGERS REVEAL NEWSOM PURCHASE FROM WASHINGTON

Bobo Begins Third Hitch With Flatbush Team; Won 11 Games This Year.

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, Sept. 1 — Brooklyn's two-tone baseball empire of Leo Durocher and Larry MacPhail becomes a trio today with the arrival of Louis Norman (Bobo) Newsom, one of the American league's most tried and articulate pitchers.

Newsom, who has played for 12 clubs in eight leagues, became a Dodger yesterday just 12 hours before the world series trade deadline and less than 24 hours after Manager Durocher publicly announced he wasn't worrying about the St. Louis Cardinals now only three and a half games in back of the Dodgers.

Trade Farmhand

In return for Newsom the Washington Senators obtained Mickey Haefner and Jack Kraus, a lefthanded southpaw Brooklyn farmhand spending the summer at Montreal.

It was the second deal of the day for the Senators, who earlier had released Roy Cullenbine to the New York Yankees for whom Cullenbine was acquired as outfield insurance following Tommy Henrich's enlistment in the marine guard. He also will be eligible for the world series.

The Newsom return to Brooklyn will make the third time as a Dodger uniform for the 32 year old righthander who loves money better than the spotlight. He came up as a rookie in 1929 and immediately won a $25 prize offered by Manager Wilbert Robinson for displaying the best curve.

The attention accorded the Middle East does not dim the importance of the great battle for control of the maritime communications.

The industrial output of the United States and Great Britain will be the basic factor in the eventual defeat of the enemy.

But the axis in operations by sea and air has drastically limited distribution.

Difficulties for Reds

Unless maritime communications with Russia are improved, observers find it difficult to see how the Soviets can achieve an offensive in eastern Europe.

A union of German forces from Africa and Russia in Iraq or Iran would almost completely isolate Russia and India and would foreshadow a junction of the Japanese and Germans in a vast military structure.

The Nazis then would be able to transfer at least 150 divisions to western Europe.

Here is an outline of the world strategical situation as seen in London as the fourth year of the war opens:

War in the Air—

The RAF has balanced German superiority over the Red air force by a series of paralyzing raids on German industry.

The commando raid on Dieppe marked the ascendancy of the allied air forces and indicated the time is at hand when allied fighters will be able to spread the necessary air umbrella over any invading forces in western Europe.

But German and Italian air power has virtually closed the western Mediterranean to all but heavily escorted convoys.

War at Sea—

Both the British and United States navies are regarded as having recovered from the crippling blows dealt them by the Japanese in the first months of the Pacific war.

The anti-submarine campaign is declared to be progressing more favorably than anyone hoped six months ago.

Added to American measures, pilots of the RAF coastal command are streaming at U-boats in American waters and the Bay of Biscay, where the bomber command has hit repeatedly at German submarine bases and building factories.

War on Land—

The allies have lost a staggering amount of territory, Europe, from the Atlantic to central Russia and from the Caucasus to North Cape, lies under German domination.

Malaya, the Netherlands East Indies, the Philippines, Burma and Libya all fell to the enemy in the third year of the war.

China, the senior allied combatant, is seen as being slowly encircled by the Japanese who are reported to be waiting for some significant Russian defeat, such as the fall of Stalingrad, to launch an attack on Siberia.

Yet, if the Middle East land bridge is held and Russia is able to fight on, the position of the allied land forces, in view of their steadily increasing air power, is considered here to be very favorable.

Areas for Offensives

The three great areas for launching offensives are in the hands of the allied nations, it is pointed out.

As a result of the battle of the Solomons, communications between the United States, Australia and New Zealand may be kept open and materials and men can be gathered there for an attack on Japan, observers said.

A thumping defeat for Field Marshal Erwin Rommel would change Egypt from a desperately held base to a concentration area for an allied drive across North Africa which would place soldiers and aircraft of the United Nations in a position for an invasion of Italy.

Last, and most important, Britain—the unsinkable aircraft carrier—is the staging area for an invasion of Europe which it is taken for granted will be attempted in the fourth year of the war by every new technique, including "saturation" bombing parachute troops and air-borne infantry.

AT LEAST 3 KILLED IN PLANT EXPLOSION

Fire Follows Blast in New Jersey Town.

By The Associated Press

METUCHEN, N. J., Sept. 1—An explosion and fire destroyed a small building of the New Jersey Fulgent Co. today, killing at least three persons and injuring an undetermined number.

The plant, working on war contracts, is in Raritan township, near Metuchen.

Police Chief Enos Fouratt of Metuchen said "at least three persons" were killed, burned beyond recognition.

Two men, burned severely, were taken to St. Peter's hospital, New Brunswick.

A short time after the explosion Capt. D. B. MacMasters of the U. S. army ordnance department, New York, arrived at the plant and soldiers were placed at entrances.

1940 Best Year

His best year on a won and lost basis was 1940 when he helped Detroit win the American league pennant with 21 victories and only five defeats. That fall he defeated the Cincinnati Reds twice in the world series but lost to Paul Derringer, 2 to 1, in a third game which came with only one day's rest and less than 24 hours after the death of his father.

In 1938 he equalled the American league record by fanning six consecutive batters, turning the trick at the expense of the New York Yankees.

This year he won 11 and lost 17 with the seventh place Senators.

What You Buy With WAR BONDS

The "Stovepipe," as the 60-millimeter trench mortar is commonly known, is used by our infantry for close in fighting. It fires a 3 4 pound shell at the rate of about 35 a minute.

The mortar fires its projectile in a U-shaped arc and for this reason may be successfully camouflaged behind an obstruction. It costs about $300. You and your neighbors, joining together, can buy many of these effective weapons for use of our army. Investing at least ten per cent of your income in War Bonds every payday will do the job. Mother of Doctor Receives Word from Nurse.

Special to The Star

KENTON, Sept. 1—Major Calvin H. Jackson, son of Mrs. F. B. Jackson of Kenton was at Bataan and a few days after the fall of Bataan, his mother was told today by one of the eight nurses who fled Bataan and Corregidor, Mrs. Dorothea Doty Engel, now at Hot Springs, Little Rock, Ark., wrote that Dr. Jackson, a former Kenton physician and surgeon, was never wounded and that she left him in Hospital No. 2 when she fled to Corregidor prior to the fall of Bataan April 8. "He appeared to be in good health and fine spirits at that time although he was quite thin," Mrs. Engel said.

Two patients who fled the hospital a few days later and made their way safely to Corregidor said that at that time the doctors and patients had not been molested. This was the first cheering news the mother had had of her son since weeks prior to the fall of Bataan.

WHEAT LEADS GRAINS IN PRICE ADVANCE

By The Associated Press

CHICAGO, Sept. 1 — With wheat contracts setting the pace, all grain futures recorded substantial gains in fairly active trade today.

Rising nearly 2 cents, September and December wheat contracts were at new six week peaks as mill buying, strength at Minneapolis and the absence of any heavy hedging pressure combined to stimulate the market.

Unfavorable weather conditions were reported in certain sections of the northwest, and this was said to have slowed up harvesting and the movement of grain to market.

Other grains were up in sympathy with the bread cereal. A good demand was reported in the cash market for choice quality oats, receipts of cash corn here were the smallest in some time and rye enjoyed good commission house buying.

Some Timidity Blamed on Cloudier War News from Egypt, Russia.

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, Sept. 1—Leading stocks, with scattered exceptions displayed a distinct lack of recovery power in today's market.

Some blamed buying timidity on the day's cloudier war news from Egypt and Russia. In addition, bullish contingents still were disposed to move carefully pending details of the administration's proposed attack on the high cost of living and completion of the 18X program.

Stocks backward included U. S. Steel, Bethlehem, General Motors, Chrysler, Anaconda, Kennecott, Du Pont and Westinghouse. Occasional plus marks were exhibited by Montgomery Ward, American Can and Western Union.

PRESIDENT SAYS U. S. WARS ON TYRANNY

Foe Also Learns Answer to Query About Navy.

By The Associated Press

BETHESDA, Md., Sept. 1—The enemy is learning the answer to his taunting question of "where is the United States navy?" says President Roosevelt.

Speaking here in suburban Washington yesterday at the dedication of a towering new naval medical center, the President asserted that the enemy learned in the Atlantic, the Coral sea, off Midway and is learning now in attempts to recapture lost areas in the Solomon island, that the navy is where it has always been —"in there fighting."

In a radio broadcast carried throughout the world by shortwave, Mr. Roosevelt declared that America was wholly dedicated to the defeat of German, Italian and Japanese tyrants and to removal "of the injustices and inequalities which create such tyrants and breed new wars."

At the same time, the President cited the "almost incredible total" of 42,000,000 man days lost last year through industrial accidents, and declared that among those killed or disabled were men and women "who could have helped to build planes, tanks, ships and guns."

AFRICA

air attack on Japan's home islands last April.)

Four German divisions were said to form the spearhead of the axis attack.

Parachute troops which arrived in North Africa at the same time as the 164th division also are believed to be attached to this force.

Two Italian armored divisions, the Ariete and the Littorio of 8,000 men and approximately 150 tanks each, also supply some of the enemy armor. There are six Italian infantry divisions of 10,000 men each in North Africa.

Except for air operations, the headquarters communique covered the same ground as a communique issued earlier in London by the war office, reporting that in the central sector an enemy attack was repulsed.

Of the air operations the headquarters communique said:

"Although dust curtailed air operations, a number of successful bombing raids were carried out on enemy transport during the past 48 hours."

Enemy Planes Destroyed

"In air combat yesterday our fighters destroyed at least seven enemy aircraft in addition to many on the ground.

"Last night our bombers carried out heavy and successful raids against concentrations of enemy vehicles in the battle area."

Today's Cairo communique added no new details to the picture of the ground fighting, beyond the fact that "strong enemy columns" were engaged. But it reported that allied bombers made heavy and successful raids on concentrations of axis vehicles in the battle area and fighters destroyed seven axis planes in the air and "many on the ground."

The Italian high command issued its shortest communique in months, reporting aside from bombing operations only "activity of advanced units" and the taking of "many prisoners."

Army-Pro Football Games on Network

The football games under way between army all-star players, divided into western and eastern squads, and teams of the National Professional league are being carried on the MBS network. The series consists of eight games, the first two, last Sunday and next, going to Pacific coast stations only. Beginning Sept. 9 for the contest with the Detroit Lions, the six games concluding with that on Sept. 20 will be on a 150-station hookup. Three are at night. Short wave relays are planned for American troops abroad, according to The Associated Press.

Death Takes Crestline Restaurant Operator

Special to The Star

CRESTLINE, O., Sept. 1 — William J. Frye, 59, Crestline restauranteur for 32 years, died this morning in St. Vincent's hospital in Toledo after a three-month illness.

Mr. Frye, a native of Crestline, was a partner in the Frye Bros. & McMahon restaurant.

He was a member of St. Joseph's Catholic church, the Knights of Columbus, the Catholic Knights of Ohio and the Crestline lodges of Elks and Eagles.

Surviving are the widow, Mrs. Clara Warner Frye, three children, Mary Ann, at home, Rev. Father Leo Frye of Findlay and Herbert, who is overseas with the 37th Division, two sisters, Mrs. Joseph Leppert of Crestline and Mrs. Frank Hang of Cleveland, and a brother, Peter, with whom he was in business.

The body was brought to the Garverick funeral home. The requiem mass probably will be solemnized on Thursday.

YOUR HEALTH

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M.D.

Problems in Reading.

Illiteracy in the United States is lower than in any other country in the world and is almost as low as it can ever be made. This affirmation is made in spite of alarmist misinterpretation, based on the figures that 430,000 men had been deferred for army service because of inability to meet the Army's educational requirements. The educational standards of the Army are far higher than in the first World War.

In the present generation 95 per cent of children between the ages of 10 and 13 are attending school and have been for at least four years. Of actual illiterates, unable to read and write, 71 per cent are survivors of the pre-1914 immigration, where foreign language difficulties were never overcome, and Negroes.

Statistics on the subject of how efficient reading is in the general population are not so encouraging as those on stark illiteracy. About 30 per cent of pupils in the sixth grade read no faster than they did in the fourth grade. A fifth grade child should read 182 words a minute; a seventh grade child, 230 words; a high school pupil, 300 words, and a college student, 350 to 500 words. This means not only reading words, but also grasping the meaning. You should be able to read this column in 1¼ to 2 minutes.

Backwardness in reading for any child should be a real concern to parents. Of course, probably the commonest cause is a visual defect, which never became evident in the younger years when close vision was unnecessary.

There is a group of non-readers, however, who have good vision, good intelligence, but are backward. I referred to studies on them made by Dr. Kirkpatrick, of New York, and would like to explain somewhat further.

Ten types of errors were listed: pronunciation of vowels, pronunciation of consonants, reversals, additions of sounds or words, omissions, substitutions, repetitions, and words whose pronunciation required help from the teacher. The last group was the highest (30 per cent), with substitution and addition about 10 per cent, and troubles with vowels and consonants about 20 per cent.

Studied psychologically, 19 out of 25 students in this group were read to by some member of the family. It is debatable whether parents should read to children of school age. Reading, like speech, is born of necessity. This group of children were "followers;" they tended to be dependent and probably always would be.

Timidity was put down as the cause in 13 children and lack of teething, walking and talking had interest in 10. Retardation in been noticed in six of these. A foreign language was spoken in 10 homes. One child never had learned to speak English until he started to school.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

P. C.: If I press my thumb anywhere on the shin bones it leaves a hole as if there was fluid there. What is the reason for this?

Answer: There is fluid there. It is a form of dropsy. It may be due to varicose veins or to kidney or heart disease. You should go to a doctor and have your urine and heart examined.

Pitfalls of Love

By ADELE GARRISON

BEFORE my father could answer Noel struck into the conversation.

"It doesn't matter what he deduces," he said vehemently. "He won't get a chance to take any cheap revenge on Mary. I shall see to that! I haven't been a very good husband to her, but at least I can protect her from that swine, whether—"

I was afraid he was going to spoil his heroic speech by saying "whether she wants my protection or not." But he clamped his lips upon the "whether," and the frown with which my father had greeted my question changed to an amused smile at Mary's harassed young husband.

"You need have no worry on that score, Noel," he said. "In the first place, it would not be Steve's vengeance which would threaten Mary if the truth were known, but that of higher-ups in the gang to which he secretly belongs.

Substitute Document

"In the second place, Steve will not know Mary was to blame for our finding the paper. Indeed, when he comes back to consciousness he will not miss the document. Inside his shoe he will find a folded paper which he will think is the one he put there."

Noel's "goggle eyes" at this speech were matched by mine.

"Because of your blow, Noel," my father said, "we have all the time we need to make that substitution. We have duplicates of all kinds of papers and seals used for official documents, and an expert copyist is now on his way here.

"He will copy the document we found, which contains certain highly technical specifications, but with slight changes which will make it useless to the people now anxiously waiting to see it, and I will defy Steve to notice the substitution."

"But won't the others notice the change?" I asked my father breathlessly.

"The original traitor, who let it get out of his department, will know," my father said sternly. "Those who receive it may guess what has happened, but will only know with certainty that the document is useless to them instead of being of priceless value.

"So you can see that Mary is in no danger whatever, from Redfield or anyone else. And now I must hurry back to see the expert who is coming. Redfield, attended most capably by Dr. Twitchell, is in no danger, but I don't think he will recover consciousness until the expert's work has been placed in Redfield's shoe."

I knew my father had good reason to believe that Steve's unconsciousness would continue until that was done. Dr. Twitchell would see to that.

Noel Wants To See Mary

"You will want to see me later, Father?" I asked.

"Yes," he said, turning back, "and Mary also. But Noel, you will not have to wait unless you wish to."

Noel's face was dark with angry humiliation as the door closed.

"That means," he said, "that he would rather I did not stay."

"I am sure you are mistaken," I told him. "I think he is simply considering your comfort." And although I was by no means sure of my premise, I was glad to see the black frown on Noel's face change to mere bewilderment, gloomy but free from anger.

"I suppose I ought to understand," he said wearily, "but I don't—and can't."

He hesitated for an instant, then spoke with a rush.

"Would you mind letting Mary come in here again—to see me alone for a minute or two?"

The Stars Say—

For Wednesday, Sept. 2

This day may be very lively and probably exciting, although it may be beset with a variety of obstacles, upsets, adverse situations and strange frustrations. While the mind may be keyed up and clever, to meet such a chain of difficulties, and there may be little if any cooperation or sympathy from those able to help, yet the soundness and depth of the abilities and resources with the force of true principles, logic and industry, patience, self-reliance and perseverence should win out.

Those whose birthday it is may be confronted by a year in which ultimate success and security must be wrested from a variety of difficulties, obstructions and peculiar or extraordinary circumstances, probably of sudden and devastating force. Postpone new or radical operations, shun speculative enterprises and push forward with confidence to sound objectives.

A child born on this day while having a brilliant and versatile mind, which might draw public or community attention, yet may encounter obstacles and setbacks.

CONSIDER VOTING CHANGE

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., Sept. 1—Secretary of State John E. Sweeney said today he would discuss with Atty. Gen. Thomas J. Herbert the possibility of changing voting hours at the Nov. 3 election for the convenience of war plant workers. Sweeney said it might be possible to make the voting time 7:30 a. m. to 7:30 p. m., although the hours now are set by statute at from 6:30 a. m. to 6:30 p. m.
